myBSO.ORG

Join Steinway as it celebrates its 150th Birthday at Symphony Hall!

Steinway Artist Celebration Concert
March 15, 2003 7:30PM - Symphony Hall
Boston, Massachusetts

Doors open at 5:30pm, with an informational talk at 6:30pm to accompany the historic pianos on display at Symphony Hall. The collection of historic pianos will include: the Vladmir Horowitz, the Van Cliburn, the 500,000th Steinway, a Rhapsody "Blue" Steinway (featured at left), and others! The concert, featuring thirteen Steinway artists, begins at 7:30pm.

Enjoy music from the core of the classic repertoire from Bach to Rachmaninoff, as well as other works by American composers from Gottschalk through Gershwin, and jazz improvisations. Closing the concert are exciting performances of pieces for two, three, four or even more pianos!

Join us at Symphony Hall for this exciting concert to benefit the BSO Youth Programs. More than 60,000 students throughout New England benefit from Boston Symphony Orchestra education programs. The Boston Symphony's Outreach programs include The Godparent Program, Days in the Arts at Tanglewood, Project STEP, a Concerto Competition for advanced high school students, and Community Partnerships with schools and community leaders.

Tickets cost:
$100 VIP* (includes post concert reception), $50, $40, $30

Kids 12 and under get 50% off the ticket price!*

For tickets visit www.bso.org or call 888-266-1200.

 $100 tickets and child discount not available via the website, please call to order.